

PUBLIC • PREMIUM

When Youve Become Chronically Online

---

Being online is normal now. But "normal" is not a moral category. You can be normal and still be unwell. t...

Abraham of London • 2026-04-21

Being online is normal now.

But "normal" is not a moral category.

You can be normal and still be unwell.

Here's the hard truth:

If you spend your best mental energy reacting to strangers, you will have nothing left for your real assignment.

And that's not an accident.

Distraction is an industry.

This week, reclaim your mind:

- remove one app for 7 days
- set one "no screen" hour daily
- replace scrolling with something embodied: walk, journal, pray, cook

Your life is not in your feed.

Your life is where your attention goes.

Spend it like it matters.