

PUBLIC • PREMIUM

When Every Promotion Feels Hollow

You level up. New title. New pay. New respect. And for about 48 hours you feel alive. Then the emptiness returns.
/...

Abraham of London • 2026-04-27

You level up.

New title. New pay. New respect.

And for about 48 hours you feel alive.

Then the emptiness returns.

Here's the confrontation:

If your joy depends on the next milestone, you're not building a career. You're chasing a mirage.

The goalpost will keep moving until you move the centre of your life.

You don't need less success. You need alignment.

Because climbing a ladder leaning against the wrong wall is still a loss - just a prestigious one.