You're not lazy.

You work hard -- sometimes.

You just don't have systems.

So your life runs on mood.

When you feel inspired, you move. When you feel tired, you disappear. When you feel stressed, you spiral.

That's not laziness. That's undisciplined living.

Discipline is not intensity.

It's repeatability.

It's doing small things consistently even when you don't feel like a hero.

This week, build one system:

- a set time to write
- a fixed window for deep work
- a daily walk
- a weekly review

Stop asking for motivation.

Build structure.

Because the future you want isn't built by bursts.

It's built by rhythms.
