Destiny Mapping Worksheet

A structured reflection for discovering your mandate

{"Destiny is not a random destination; it is the inevitable outcome of alignment. This worksheet helps you trace the internal and external signals that define your specific mandate."}

A premium, A4-ready reflective guide for institutional leaders and individuals in transition.

Reflection Sections

1. Gift Patterns

What have you always been good at—even without training? Identify the "effortless" skills that others find difficult.

2. Pain Signals

What wounds shaped your worldview? In the economy of destiny, your greatest area of past suffering often becomes the site of your greatest future authority.

3. Burden Identification

What problems disturb you more than others? A "holy frustration" is often the first sign of an assignment.

4. [Responsibility]/(lexicon/responsibility) Appetite

What roles have you naturally stepped into when there was a vacuum of leadership? Trace where you have historically been willing to pay the price of order.

5. Vision Traces

What themes keep recurring in your imagination? Not fantasies of escape, but blueprints for construction.

The Synthesis: Destiny Statement

{"Use the data from the sections above to construct a 3-4 sentence synthesis of your current trajectory."}

Construct your statement using this logic:

- [Identity]/(vault/lexicon/identity): "I am a [Descriptor] called to..."
- Assignment: "...build and cultivate [Specific Domain]..."
