

PUBLIC • PREMIUM

When Doctrine Feels Safer Than God

Doctrine matters. Truth matters. But doctrine can become a hiding place for people who are scared of intimacy with God. Because doctrine is controllable. God...

Abraham of London • 2026-04-21

Doctrine matters.

Truth matters.

But doctrine can become a hiding place for people who are scared of intimacy with God.

Because doctrine is controllable. God is not.

Here's the uncomfortable reality:

Some people use doctrine to avoid surrender.

Because surrender means God can ask for things:

- forgiveness you don't want to give
- obedience that costs reputation
- integrity that removes comfort

Doctrine lets you stay informed without being transformed.

This week, shift from information to encounter:

- pray without performing
- read one Gospel passage slowly
- ask: "Lord, what do You want from me right now?"

Not a lecture. A response.

Truth is not meant to be displayed. Truth is meant to be lived.

And God is not a concept to be mastered. He is a King to be obeyed - and a Father to be known.